“AIDE Made me the Person I Did not Expect to be;
It gave me the opportunity to continue my Doctorate Degree”

—Dr. Concesa T. Cortez

My Study Journey – How I began

It has been my desire to finish my course, or at least to earn a four-year course college degree program, but because I got married in a younger age and gave birth to my first child, I was not able to finish my college education which I started in one of the reputable universities in Manila way back in the 1980's. I attempted to go back to school, in a “campus education” but I was not able to make it because education was not my priority anymore, it was my baby; raising up my firstborn. Because of my ardent desire to go back to school, and at least find a better job, I enrolled a short-course (Computer Secretarial) in one of the prestigious vocational schools in Manila (Cora Doloroso Career Centre), way back in the 1990's. This led me to earn a diploma and basic knowledge and skills in computer operation which added to my earned units equivalent to two (2) years in an undergraduate course. With this very minimal credential added to my civil service eligibility, I was accepted to work in a government service in 1990. Fortunate enough, one of the Human Resources staff in the company where I am still employed (DOST-MIRDC), approached me and offered me to enroll in AIDE. She introduced to me the opportunity of going back to school and finish my undergraduate degree while taking care of my 2-year old toddler at that time. My heart pounded fast, I was so excited then, I said to myself, at last I can finish my four-year course while I am not compromising my motherhood! I mean... I can still give much time to my 2-year old daughter while pursuing my course. (N.B. To be continued in our March 2023 issue)

NATURE OF THE OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT (OM) PROGRAM

The Operations Management program prepares students to manage the operations of manufacturing, supply-chain, agri-business as well as service enterprises, focusing on the need to effectively and efficiently produce and deliver products and services on time and within budget. The program curriculum covers all aspects of operations within the organization, including the management of purchases, inventory, production and service quality, logistics, supply chain and distribution.

“More process, less innovation. More operations, less innovation. More management, less innovation. More entrepreneurs, more innovation.”
